As the trial at Georgetown proceeds more convincing is the conspiracy to murder exposed.

It is given out that Hon. D. B. Hill will speak in Kentucky for the Democrats during the coming campaign.

The mother of Hon. James D. Richardson, the Democratic leader in Congress, died at Murfreesboro, Tenn., last Saturday.

Robt. Charles, a negro desperado, was shot to death at New Orleans last Friday after he had killed and wounded a dozen men.

The Democratic State Central Committee has been called to meet at Covington to-morrow to select a Campaign Committee and to make other important arrangements.

King Humbert of Italy was assassinated last Sunday. Three shots entered his body, one piercing his heart. Angelo Bressi, the assassin, is an anarchist. He has been arrested, and no Mount will intercept him.

Hon. Charles A. Towne will be withdrawn from the fusion Populist ticket about the 15th of August. His resignation will be accepted and Adlai E. Stevenson will be placed in his stead. It begins to look like every body is traveling Democratic. The National gold wing of the party will not put out a ticket, but will support Mr. Bryan. The German element of the Republican party is in line with the Democrats, and there is no question but Mr. Bryan grows stronger every day. Mr. Harrison will not have any thing to say for Mr. McKinley which means a gain of many Democratic votes in Indiana, and it is confidently believed that Mr. Bryan will carry the State. Montrill lives in Indiana.

A VIEW OF THE PAST.

A little over a year ago three prominent and distinguished Democrats engaged in one of the most thorough and exciting campaigns for the Democratic nomination for Governor that was ever experienced in this State. Charge after charge were made against each other which aroused their friends to the same political altitude, and all who witnessed the State Convention will remember the strife and bitterness created in all parts of the Commonwealth in the Democratic party.

It was a time when the friends of each candidate asserted that they were right and that their choice only could win in the final contest at the polls, and when the county conventions were held all kinds of methods prevailed that indicated success for their candidate. It was a bitter contention as to who was most to blame for the many contests that were held at the polls, and as to who was most at fault who were acting good Samaritans, for that fight is past, and we ought to be wiser if not better.

The delegates who were selected went to the convention at Louisville determined to win the nomination for their favorite regardless of the golden rule; they went to win by any means, foul or fair. This was as morally true of the delegates favorable to one candidate as of the other. It so happened that the friends of William Gandy prevailed and he landed the coveted prize.

A full State ticket was named and we all returned to our respective counties, some with joyful hearts, others with bitter feelings, swearing vengeance on the head of our ticket for having won upon the same footing and similar method that they sought to gain advantage and win the nomination.

At that time it was not apparent to the great bulk of Democrats that a powerful corporation had espoused the cause of one candidate and had been instrumental in creating a bitter fight in our own party, and had exhausted all its effective tactics in trying to secure the nomination for its choice; but failing, it sought an advantage in disrupting the Democratic party and doing all it could to elect a Republican. In this it used every agency that would accomplish its purpose.

An independent Democratic ticket was put up to draw all dissatisfied Democrats who could not be induced to vote direct for the Republican ticket and throughout the State good honest men, true Democrats, who had never faltered in all the past, were induced to support it on the full belief that they were doing the best that could be done.

They believed that their leaders were honest and sincere in fighting the party nominees and they were induced to support John Young Brown. It was a terrible struggle and the power that failed in Music Hall was doing its work, not showing face to those it sought to deceive. Thousands of good, true Democrats were pulled off their political base which had never been done before.

At that time, nor have we since, doubted the honesty and good intentions of the rank and file of those who supported the independent ticket. While we did not believe them right, and while we felt assured that they were acting under the heat of passion in taking such a position that their sense of pride would induce zeal and earnest work for their ticket, yet we felt that the majority of them were actuated by pure and upright motives for what seemed to them to be the best interest of the party. We endeavored to give them fair treatment, but the news seemed to be a target at which many of them fired, but unmindful of the many hits, we pursued our course, supporting the Democratic nominees as best we could, and down to this good fortune we have no tangible evidence that in so doing we committed a wrong against our party or a sin against the Commonwealth.

At all times we gave our Democratic brethren letter treatment than we received from them, but at no time did we cow from threats or swerve from the plain path of duty. Admissions still come from those who claim to be Democrats for us to keep still while they may come silently back to affiliate with the party. Now, here is what we have to say.

The door, the front door is wide open and all who left a year ago have been invited back by two State conventions and the granting of nearly all their demands, except the naming of a candidate. You left the party by reason of the Music Hall convention and by the endorsement of the Goebel election law at that time, but are now facing the direct opposite you have been granted that peaceful, honest and fair convention which you as a Democrat are. The same convention requests our Legislature to change the election law and put it in the minds of all a fair, honest law. That same convention provided such modus of party organization as you have demand. What's wrong? If you were right in your contentions last year you should now be a hearty supporter of the nominee.

Mr. Beckham did not get his nomination by fraud. He is a worthy Democrat, and the party has said in unmistakable terms that he is the man for the place.

The fight before us has no connection with the one that is past. If Mr. Goebel was not your choice the assassin and conspirators have done their work. This is no time to quibble over little matters or to pull and allow the common enemy to "press the crown of thorns" on the brow of Democracy; it is the supreme opportunity of every Democrat, whether silver or gold, Goebel or anti-Goebel.

The canes that broke your devotion to your party have ceased to exist, and it is now confronted with conditions that are appalling. Now, if you mean to assist your party, do not put it off too long. If you feel that it is Democratic to support a Democratic nominee in preference to a Republican, then come in through the front door, pull off your coat and go to work.

It is not a matter of concern to us when you left nor for what you left; we are only interested in your return. New conditions confront us and more serious troubles are coming than you imagined existed one year ago. There is no middle ticket this time—it is Democratic straight or Republican straight.

The news will pursue that same open and fair course as it has in the past. We do not expect the Democratic party to go to our bidding. We are willing for the majority to rule and when the majority has made a platform and named its candidate we consider it Democratic to give said nominee a hearty and enthusiastic support. We expect to do our duty as we see it let the result be what it may. This is a fight between Democrats and Republicans in this State and between the money power and the plain people in the nation.

Be not deceived. The prosecution rested its case against Caleb Powers last Saturday and believes the evidence strong enough to convict him. Powers thinks he will come clear on a motion for peremptory instructions. If this is overruled, which in our judgment, the Court is sure to do, Powers will take the stand in his own behalf, followed by about one hundred other witnesses. Probably a verdict will be reached by the last of next week. If a verdict of guilty is rendered, it is reported that John Powers will visit Georgetown with a mob and attempt to rescue his brother. No doubt John would be willing, but the undertaking would be a little too much for him.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells.

It is a good and safe medicine.
